LEADERS IN DESIGN

@ The Houston Design Center

Shannon Mann

“The showrooms at the Houston Design Center are an outstanding source for high end design. It is a well rounded center providing stone and tile, plumbing and hardware, fine decorative finishes, rugs, furnishings and accessories. This center is a great asset to my business.”

When creating a space the first thought is would I want to live in it. Is this a place that I could spend a lot of time in. Key components are comfort, ease and flow. Large enough to entertain and comfortable enough to be here alone.

It's home . . . You just want to be there. You want to collapse into that amazing comfortable chair and relax, soak it in. Whichever room that you are in it exceeds your expectations . . . Gathering, dining, creating, sharing but most off living and rejuvenating.

I believe that your environment is a key component in your quality of life. Whether you are a big entertainer or like small intimate gatherings.

What do I love. . . Time with family and friends, cooking, solving the worlds problems over a great glass of wine, music, outdoors, art and those who step out to create something that inspires, quiet time, comfort in all aspects . . . Clothes, . . . and most of all in the environment.

the rare time when there is not a schedule.

what is important in design . . . Is taking and interpreting my clients needs and desires and creating something unique for them.

when the last piece of art is hung, the . . . And we can all say this is so right. Then we know all those behind the scene moments and trials were worth it.

the hope is that we continue to create together this great spaces again and again together.

Every spot has the potential for a view . . . So it is considered from the get go. whether you are in a high rise, town home with a limited view it is always our consideration to make sure we maximize our opportunities.
